nature and the city have most often functioned as opposites within western culture a dichotomy that has been reinforced and sometimes challenged by religious images bohannon argues here that cities and natural environments however are both connected and continually affected by one another he shows how such connections become overt during natural disasters which disrupt the narratives people use to make sense of the world including especially religious narratives and make them more visible this book offers both a theoretical exploration of the intersection of the city nature and religion as well as a sociological analysis of the 1997 flood in grand forks nd usa this case study shows how religious factors have influenced how the relationship between nature and the city is perceived and in particular have helped to justify the urban control of nature the narratives found in grand forks also reveal a broader understanding of the nature of western cities highlighting the potent and ethically rich intersections between religion cities and nature after graduating from mississippi state university in 1976 di rushing and her husband sam found themselves back on their family farm near merigold mississippi with 350 acres and no real clue what to do the couple decided to open the first winery in mississippi and with it a successful business was born six years later a small restaurant joined the delta winery both businesses were thriving by 1990 with eight national award winning wines a beautiful vineyard and a successful restaurant but in march of 1990 a series of unforeseen events rocked the operation after the rushings discovered one of the tour guides ray russell selling drugs in the winery parking lot they fired him he responded with a terrorizing vengeance that persisted over the next nine months in the early morning hours the former guide broke into the winery crept into the wine cellar and released the entire inventory nearly a quarter of a million dollars worth down the drain fortunately his incompetence thwarted his most destructive intention to blow up the restaurant in his rampage he broke all the windows which allowed the gas from the kitchen oven to escape sparing the premises though the rushings rebuilt with the help of their community russell continued to stalk and threaten the young family as his menacing behavior continued to escalate the rushings closed their business of fourteen years and moved to ouray colorado where they began rebuilding their lives culminating in the sudden violent murders of russell his wife and his father twenty five years later this book tells a story of both shock and resilience charting mississippi history in the process intertwined with the true crime narrative the delta in the rearview mirror the life and death of mississippi s first winery details author di rushing s life in and out of mississippi including growing up in 1960s greenville attending university traveling overseas and the relationships she cultivated along the way
